

The Water Transformer

is a small, cylindrical container made of specially selected copper and brass alloys. Its interior contains a crystal-like star encompassing 14 spikes and 336 facets.

Tests show that drinking water treated with the Water Transformer H2QW features properties that are found in excellent spring water.

The Water Transformer H2QW is the first product that was developed by Q-met. It is used to treat water and thanks to its convenient size it can be worn as a pendant. Because it covers all areas of fluids, it serves as a universal domestic remedy. Due to its intensity, the Water Transformer H2QW is most notably used by therapists and H2Q enthusiasts.

H2QW

«Ever since I place the pendant in my old dachshund's basket, he goes out for a walk without having to be massaged half an hour beforehand.»
